

Writing and Communicating with the General Public An In-Mind Workshop

Oliver Genschow (University of Cologne) & Jan Crusius (University of Cologne)

o.genschow@in-mind.org

j.crusius@in-mind.org

Friday, October 25 2019

University Trier, Campus I, Building D, Room D 435

10:00 - 17:00

- free of charge
- limited to 15 participants
- registration at events@leibniz-psychology.org
- please give full name and academic position (postgraduate, PhD candidate, postdoc, professor)
- registration is open until Monday, October 21, 2019.
- registrations will be considered in the order in which they are received.

Most scientists will probably agree that psychological research can be of great interest to society, but is often inaccessible to the greater public. How can you communicate your findings effectively? This workshop aims to support psychological scientists in this endeavor. You will start writing a psychological manuscript of your choice – but for the public. Before the workshop, you should prepare a first draft of an abstract and the initial paragraphs of the manuscript (in German or English language). During the workshop, we will provide hands-on tips on how to spice up your writing and how to avoid frequent pitfalls. Afterwards, assistance to participants will be continued by In-Mind editors, resulting in a submission of the articles in the online journal In-Mind. Check the magazine, here at www.in-mind.org.